HARD TIMES

The following is a little bit of French allegory.

A portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine. His first small bottle finished, he was about to order more when his eye fell on a headline in the Figaro, "Hard Times Are Coming," so instead of ordering his usual second bottle he called for his check.

"Is there anything wrong with the wine?" asked the landlord.

"The wine is good, but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize," explained the artist.

"Hard times," said the landlord. "Then my wife must not order the silk dress we planned but must take one of cotton."

"Hard times," repeated the dressmaker when the order was received. "This is no time to expand. I must not make the improvements I had planned to make."

"Hard times, eh?" said the builder when the dressmaker canceled the building plans. "Then I cannot have my wife's portrait painted."

So he wrote to the artist and canceled his order.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him. On a nearby chair was the paper in which he had read of hard times two days before. He picked it up to read more closely and found it was two years old!

Another two-day storm gave us a call the early part of the week, accompanied with a little snow. The mercury hovered around the 10 below mark, and it was rather unpleasant to be outdoors.

HOCKEY MATCH

Veteran 5
Monitor 1

The local hockey team went up to Veteran, last Thursday, and were forced to be content with the short end of the score after a strenuous but cleanly contested game. The home-boys put up a fine brand of hockey, in the first frame, but fell by the wayside for the balance of the fray, not having fully recovered from the game with Coronation on Tuesday.

No scoring was done in the first period, Veteran notching two in the second and three in the third periods, Monitor's lone tally coming in the last stanza when Gray batted in a rebound off the goal post. Veteran scored four of their goals from within a few feet of the net, a three-man combination working the puck right down the ice to within easy striking distance of the goal.

OIL ACTIVITIES

The coming of spring will see greater activity in the Monitor, Birch Lake and Viking oil fields than any other season. Before the summer is very far advanced, at least three or four of the wells now under way should be finished. The location of the golden fluid which has cost so many dollars to locate should be found. That the formations which for generations past have been accumulating oil, is in all these locations, has been predicted by many of the best geologists of the age. Large volumes of gas have been found near all these locations. Whether the drill will be able to penetrate the gas pressure and release the oil, is the big question.

Jas. Dummis, manager of the West Regent Oil Co., is expected back from Scotland shortly when arrangements will be completed to resume operations on their well a couple of miles south of Monitor. The drill in this well reached around 2550 feet about the 1st of December. Oil had commenced to come in the hole when operations were suspended for the winter.

There seems no doubt in the minds of experienced oil men that this will be a producer as soon as the drill is put down a few more feet. In all probability this well will be capped until other wells are completed so as to be able to produce enough oil to justify the erection of a refinery. It is understood that the Imperial Oil Co., have ordered lumber and the machinery for the erection of a new rig near their old location, about ten miles south of the West Regent well. Good progress was being made at this location, late last fall, the hole being down around 1700 feet when early one morning an explosion of gas set fire to the rig and destroyed it. On account of the approach of winter it was decided to leave the erection of a new rig until this spring.

The Talpey-Arnold Co. and the Mud Batts Oil Co. both started wells in this district last summer. These wells should be well under way by midsummer. We understand that another favorable location, about half way between the Imperial and West Regent wells, is being considered by some American drillers.

Government Farms Of Canada, Which Are A Pattern To The World

No country anywhere has developed a system of experimental farms of anything like the extent and significance of the Dominion Experimental Farms System of Canada. The system, which had its beginning some 38 years ago, now comprises thirty-two farms, stations and sub-stations distributed throughout this country and in active operation. Each of the leading farms may be said to represent a section of the Dominion differing physically and climatically from other sections, and presenting problems on the solution of which successful farming in the region served largely depends.

Besides serving the older provinces, the extension of the system has kept pace, so far as available funds would permit, with the opening up of the newer districts for settlement, and with the evolution which is continually taking place in farming generally. The settlement of all untried territory brings with it new conditions and new problems which must be met and solved if farming is to be successful. This is particularly true of a country so vast in extent as our own, and presenting such varied types of soil and climate. Advice is necessary, based on practical test, as to the most profitable type of agriculture, the best methods, and the most suitable varieties of crops and live stock. Thus farm after farm and station after station was added to the chain, each becoming a centre of experiment and investigation, so that those who take up farming in the regions served may have done for them by the government work that they were unable individually to undertake.

In briefly sketching the history and growth of the system, it should be explained that the whole is directed through what is known as the Experimental Farms Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The branch has its headquarters at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. A list of the thirteen divisions which it comprises will give a general idea of the comprehensiveness of the work. These include the divisions of field husbandry, animal husbandry, horticulture, cereals, forage plants, poultry, bees, tobacco, economic fibres, chemistry, botany, illustration stations, and extension and publicity.

The preliminary step looking to the establishment of the system was taken in 1884, when a select committee of the House of Commons was appointed to enquire into the best means of encouraging and developing agriculture in Canada. In the year following, Dr. William Saunders, of London, Ontario, was authorized to visit experimental farms in the United States and in Europe. Following his report, an act was passed providing for the establishment of the present Central Farm, which was to serve Ontario and Quebec jointly, and for a branch farm in the Maritime Provinces, in Manitoba, in the Northwest Territories, and in British Columbia. The lines of investigation cited in the act to be followed included livestock breeding, dairying, the testing of cereals and other field crops, grasses and forage plants, fruits, vegetables, trees and plants generally, the study of seeds, fertilizers, plant and animal diseases, and insect pests. Any experiments or researches that might benefit agriculture were authorized to be entered upon.

Two years after the passing of the act, farms were in practical operation at Ottawa, Napan, N.B., Brandon, Man., Indian Head, N.W.T., and Agassiz, B.C. The main staff then comprised Dr. Saunders as director, and the officers in charge of the Divisions of Entomology and Botany, Chemistry and Horticulture. Naturally the work was limited in scope, but it must be remembered that up to that time farming progress depended almost entirely upon individual industry and experience unaided by investigation and experiment nationally or provincially conducted.

Dr. William Saunders held the position of director until March 21, 1911, or for 25 years, retiring then on account of ill-health and advancing age after an active life of great usefulness. The present Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the Dominion, Dr.

J. H. Grisdale, succeeded to the directorship, and was followed nine years later, or in 1920, by Mr. E. S. Archibald, B.A., B.S.A., then Dominion Animal Husbandman. When Dr. Saunders retired the number of farms and stations had been increased to nine, and Alberta and Saskatchewan had for sixteen years had provincial status, thus acquiring additional agricultural importance. During Dr. Grisdale's term, further divisions were established at the Central Farm and other divisions extended. The war, of course, interfered somewhat with development, but another farm, that at Swift Current, Sask., was established under Mr. Archibald, and illustration station and sub-stations were organized. At the present time no fewer than 2,745 experimental projects are under study on the various farms. The results of the work of the entire system is collected at Ottawa and from thence finds publicity.

In addition to the work, practical and scientific, carried on by the staff of the several divisions and its extension to the branch farms, a large amount of related work is undertaken. This includes not only corresponding with farmers everywhere to answer queries, but the preparation of reports, bulletins and pamphlets, including a leaflet entitled "Seasonable Hints," issued every four months, which is free to all applicants, as are the other publications of the branch. The holding of demonstrations, lectures, short courses, the preparation of exhibits, judging at fairs, attendance at conventions and conferences and the like, all come within the scope of the duties of the staff.

Rapid Recovery of French Farmers

Much Progress Has Been Made in War-torn Areas

The quick return of the fertility and high productive powers of the soil on the European continent such a short time after the war, especially in the devastated areas, was an eye-opener to J. Emile Vanier, civil engineer of Montreal, who has just returned from a trip to the continent.

"It is not only astonishing how quickly the land has been restored in this way again, but it is also remarkable how the people, especially the French peasants, have put their minds to their work and settled down in real earnest," he told The Star. "Not a square foot of land is wasted."

The reason for this quick recovery in productivity being reached was due, he said, to the use of lime-stone and its by-products for supplying the soil with the lime it had lost and the consequent acidity of the earth being neutralized by supply of crushed limestone or slackened lime, which is used to a great extent in Belgium.

New Constitution for Indian State

Reform Is in Memory of Visit of Prince

The Begum of Bhopal has proclaimed a new constitution for the state of Bhopal (Central India) on the lines of the British reforms in India, establishing an executive council of state and a legislative council, in memory of the visit of the Prince of Wales, says a dispatch to the London Times from Bhopal.

The Prince, the dispatch adds, has been received with extraordinary enthusiasm on the part of the public.

Just As Our Respected Grandfathers Thought In Days Of Long Ago

The following constructive article by Doctor J. W. Holland, recently appeared in an American farm journal. It is of such a helpful nature, showing how obstacles and difficulties can be met and overcome, that it appears to be well worth reprinting:

The date was 1867. The place was Northern Missouri. The Civil War was two years away. The persons were two farmers sitting together on a worn fence. The theme was the only one they knew—HARD TIMES!

You know what they were saying. Their world of finance was warped and twisted. Interest rates were high and money almost impossible to get. Their good wives were gathering up eggs and selling them for 8 cents per dozen. They had to beg the dealer to buy their pork. Their corn was worth 14 cents and their oats were not worth hauling away over the poor roads.

It was a hard time. What did they do? They faced the situation with hope and hard work; and in a few years their farms were paid for, their children educated, and they had a comfortable nest built for old age. But in 1867 the clouds of gloom hung close over their puzzled heads.

In 1893 the sons of those two farmers were sitting near the same place discussing hard times. They even went so far as to threaten to move off the farms. Nothing paid. Those were black times for the man who was trying to pay for his farm. Those discouraged farmers talked the language of their fathers a generation before.

That was in 1893. Today those two farmers have good farms, and have succeeded in giving their children a better chance in the world than they themselves had, and they have had, in all, more luxuries than their fathers had comforts.

Today the grandsons of the farmers of 1867 are sitting in their automobiles talking hard times, and poor markets, and low prices. They are talking the language of their fathers. Abraham Lincoln had a poem written by a Scotchman which he kept over his desk in the White House, which read, "We are the same our fathers have been." We are surely the same when depression hits our pocketbooks.

Time has shown that the farmers of 1867 and 1893 did not have all the facts, for had they been able to forecast the future days they would have been singing instead of moaning. Better days came just as truly as better days are sure to come to us.

Now, it might be a good deal worse! The money and gold of the world might be in foreign countries instead of in our own vaults. That is something. Then, the harvest of the past year has been, generally, 60 per cent. to the good. The prosperity of the country as a whole leaves much to be desired, but it is easily 60 per cent. normal. Some of the foreign loans will be maturing soon and that will start more capital moving.

Then we need to remember that $2.50 wheat, and $1.70 corn, and 80-cent oats were the exception, and were wartime values. We thought that that sort of thing would last forever, so we advanced the price of land far beyond where it can reasonably stay, and bought more land than we thought we might need, not thinking that the war was burning up more wealth than the excessive values we were adding to the land. After all is said and done, it is the land that stays where it is and has to bear the burden of the taxes for war. In addition, we borrowed a few billions from the banks, which billions belonged to the people, just to pay down on high-priced land or for new cars, and now the banks want their money.

It is a bad situation, but not so bad that we shall not recover. We are going to need patience, and charity, and optimism, and hard work, and a lot of other good things, to tide us over. This war, which was not of our own choosing, has still to be paid for. Taxes are certain to be high for years to come. We had better face the facts, for its stiffens the spine. The American Farmer and his Good Wife are the very people who are going to do their part to pull us all out of the National Slough of Despond.

Just as our fathers and grandfathers faced the financial chaos of their times, so will we. In the meantime there are two things we can do to help:

Let's stop talking to each other about hard times. We are not starving yet, and there is no prospect of that. If we keep on suggesting to each other that things are "going to the devil," it will grease the slide to that state of things.

Then we must keep suggesting to each other that we believe in each other; pledge each other our mutual faith to our Country and the God above us, that we will stay on the job and plug and save and dig until the new economical day dawns. If we will all do that, our eyes will be wide open to enjoy the new day when it comes.

How Scottish Farmer Succeeds

Keep Land Well Fertilized and Under Rich Cultivation

Brig-General G. H. Dean, Sydney, N.S.W., was among the distinguished passengers to disembark from the C.P.O.S. Montclair, which docked at St. John, completing her maiden voyage. General Dean has been spending several months visiting in Scotland and England for the benefit of his health, shattered during the war. He is now returning to Australia, but before sailing from Vancouver, expects to spend some time in Canada. General Dean said:

"I have always wanted to spend some time in Canada to study the country and compare it with ours. I am especially interested in farming and stock raising. I know that Canada, like her sister Dominion, excels in this work, and, while here, I shall devote some time to a study of the modes of work employed by Canadians."

"I was greatly impressed," said the General, "by the way the farmers of Scotland go about their work. They put back on the land what they take from it. I mean by that, their broad idea is that the land be never allowed to lose its energy and be kept always well fertilized and kept under rich cultivation. It is because of this that the Scottish farmer gathers sixty bushels of grain to the acre while in Australia and I think, Canada, only secure about thirty bushels. What is true of the farms of Scotland is equally true of England. Her farm lands are well cultivated and not allowed to run out. The farmers of Scotland are very up to date and can teach us a lot."

German Propaganda Still Carried On

More Mischievous Than During War
Says Lord Northcliffe

Lord Northcliffe knows something of propaganda, as the Germans themselves testified again and again during the war. The picture which he draws of the immense system conducted throughout the east, weekly and even daily, from Berlin at immense cost, and carried on by "wireless," by subsidized newspapers, and by the cinema is very disquieting, its apparent aim is to stir up trouble between France and England; America and England, Japan and England and India and England. It spreads among ignorant and credulous populations lies and mischievous half-truths about Egypt, India, Japan and China, the responsibility for the war, and the state of our trade. It is more mischievous than it was during the war, and the country which is lavishing money upon it comes forward and blandly assures us that she desires nothing but a "true and sincere peace," and that she is unable to pay anybody her just debts—London Times.

Bride's Long Journey

A journey half round the world to get married is being cheerfully undertaken by Margaret Seelack, of Vienna. She embarked on the Canadian Pacific liner Minnedosa for St. John, N.B., and on arrival there she will board the C.P.R. train, which will take her across Canada to Vancouver, where she will embark on one of the Canadian Pacific's Empress steamers for Shanghai, thus completing a journey of approximately 12,000 miles. She will be married in Shanghai.

AN ALPINE GUIDE OF THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

"If mountain climbing is dangerous, then lying in bed is far more dangerous, since more people die in bed than on the mountains." That is the answer of Rudolf Aemmer, the famous Swiss guide of Edelweiss, British Columbia, in Montreal recently, when asked if mountain climbing is a dangerous sport.

Rudolf Aemmer is well known to mountain climbers and tourists to Lake Louise, Banff Field and all the most favored of the holiday resorts in the Canadian Rocky Mountains. He has led many a party of old climbers over the peaks of the Rockies, and initiated many novices in the sport.

In the summer months when most climbing is done, Rudolf, with four other Swiss guides, makes his headquarters at Lake Louise.

Rudolf has been in Switzerland since the beginning of the winter. He went over to see the old folks in inter-lakes, where he was born, and also to indulge in the Swiss winter sports. He expects a record climbing season in the Canadian Rockies in 1923, and he has been keeping himself fit to meet it. He will be back from Switzerland in May.

Though he loves his native Switzerland Rudolf would rather live in Canada. He has been here since 1909.

Asked how he learned to climb, Rudolf said he learned in the Swiss mountains when he was a child. When a young man he got his climbing diploma. He then exhibited this in the shape of a medal which he wore on the inside of his coat. One has to qualify in Switzerland before becoming a guide.

June, July and August are the best months for Canadian climbing, Rudolf says. He told of different climbing parties he accompanied. The longest climbing trip he had was around Lake Louise and he and his party were out thirty-six days, on this trip there were thirteen people and twenty-six horses were employed to carry the food, Indian tents in which the party slept, and other requisites.

RUDOLF AEMMER.

"For climbing," Rudolf went on, "you need strong waterproof boots, with heavy nailed soles. The guides help in every way they can so that beginners starting out on a climb are properly equipped."

"Do climbers ever get nervous or dizzy?" was a question put to Rudolf. "Yes," he answered, "but my very son got over that. In an exceptional case of dizziness we bring the person down again."

Proceeding, Rudolf said that the guide led the climbing parties, and climbers held on to a rope, keeping about twenty-five feet apart. The guide used his axe to sound snow bridge. By the sound made when hit the guides know if it is safe to cross the snow bridge. It is easier to climb up than to climb down.

Rudolf has climbed with many famous Alpinists, both men and women. Records of climbs are kept at Lake Louise. It was he who carried Mrs. Stone on his back to safety after her eight day exposure on the ledge of Mount Eon last summer. The Swiss guides of the Canadian Rockies reside at a village called Edelweiss built for them in Swiss Chalet styles of architecture by the Canadian Pacific Railway. It may be seen from the transcontinental trains about a mile west of Golden, B.C. There they bring up their families, and the youngsters are taught to climb from their infancy. So Canada is assured of a hardy race of mountaineers.

The Homesteaders

ROBERT J. C. STEAD

They had been great times—wonderful times—these weeks spent in the freedom and harmony of the Arthurs' household. Mr. and Mrs. Arthurs—Uncle Fred and Aunt Lilian, as she now called them—had opened their hearts and their home to Beulah from the first. Indeed, the girl was often conscious of their gaze upon her, and at times she would look up quickly and surprise a strange, wistful look of yearning in their eyes—a look that they tried very hard to hide from her. They wanted to let her free to live her own life—to shape her career, for a time at least, wholly in accordance with her impulses.

And such a life as she had lived! Arthurs had at once placed a horse at her disposal, and with a fierce delight at the leap she was taking through conventions she swung her light leg over the saddle and sat to place like any man. Although born and raised on a farm, horseback riding was to her something of a novelty, and the assumption of the masculine position was a positive epoch in her career. How the people of Plainville would have scandalized if they could have witnessed her showing familiarity with a horse! She thought of an English girl who had been cut by the good society of Plainville because she did not ride a horse instead of a merriment. And she laughed in a wild exultant freedom, while the wind whipped her hair about her shoulders, and she felt her mount firm beneath her as they cantered across the brown foothills.

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

♦ Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken since the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

Such hills they were! In her native plains they would have been mountains of themselves, wonders of Nature to point out to strangers and to hold in a kind of awe across the country-side, but here they were foothills, mere fragments dropped from the trowel of the Builder as He reared the massive Rockies behind. And though she often in the early morning, or at sunset, or when the moon was full and white, feasted her eyes and her soul on the cold splendor of the mighty range it was to the warm brown foothills, with their stubbling of little trees and their solemn warts of grey-green rock, that her heart turned with something of human affection. At first Uncle Fred, or Aunt Lilian, or a little later, one of the two cowboys rode with her on her expeditions, but her prairie sense of direction quickly adapted itself to her new surroundings, and she soon learned to keep a keen eye for the precipitous cut-banks that drop sheer from a level plain and lie as unsuspected in the saffron sunlight as a coyote among the ripened willows. There were quicksands, too—spots where the water sprang from the hillside to the crystal stream and in a few yards soaked into the knobby earth as in a sponge—but all these places were fenced; even in Alberta, where cattle graze like rabbits on the range, the saving of sink-holes with beef steers is an expensive expedient. So Beulah quickly got her foothill sense, and in a week was riding, care-free and exultant, across the ranges as her heart listed or her horse preferred.

One morning, just as the first grey of dawn lightened the darkness of the chamber, Beulah heard her door open, and through the uncertain light she discerned Arthurs gently entering with a rifle in his hand. She sat up, alert, but not afraid; the tingling health in her veins left no place for fear and suffered no foolishness on the part of her nervous system.

"What is it, Uncle Fred?" she whispered. "Is—h," he cautioned. "You know we have been losing calves with the timber wolves? Well, there are two of the murderers just across from the corral. I thought you might want to see them."

In an instant her feet were on the floor, and, hand in hand, she and Arthurs stole to the window. At first her eyes could distinguish nothing in the darkness, but by following Arthurs' index finger she at last located two gaunt, shaggy creatures a little way up the hillside beyond the corral, and a couple of hundred yards from the house.

"However did you know they were there?" she whispered. "You must have seen them," he said.

"Not at all," he answered. "Just rancher's eyes. I heard the horns snorting, and I fancied there were visitors. Now, will you take first shot?"

"Oh, that would be a shame. I must get away, and besides, I might kill a horse."

"Well, won't press it this time," said Arthurs, "because I have a little present for you. I could hardly see them when you pointed them out."

"Not at all," he answered. "Just rancher's eyes. I heard the horns snorting, and I fancied there were visitors. Now, will you take first shot?"

"Not at all," he answered. "Just rancher's eyes. I heard the horns snorting, and I fancied there were visitors. Now, will you take first shot?"

"Oh, that would be a shame. I must get away, and besides, I might kill a horse."

"Well, won't press it this time," said Arthurs, "because I have a little present for you. I could hardly see them when you pointed them out."

ed quickly from a stage of dangerous uncertainty in her journey to one of almost expert accuracy. Then she made of the rifle a companion on her horseback excursions, to the destruction of gophers, rabbits and even a badger and a coyote. It was a brave day when she rode into the corral with a coyote strung across her saddle.

The river near by teemed with trout, and the girl soon caught the fascination of the angler. Mrs. Arthurs had a pair of high rubber boots which she used when she herself went whipping the blue water, and, anchored in these as far out as she dared go into the gravel-bottomed stream, the girl laced the cold current back and forth. And the wild excitement of her first bite! The fish darted up and down stream, pulling out line faster than she could reel it in, and Beulah, in her excitement, waded deeper into the stream, a step followed the gulping line. But mountain streams are treacherous; one step too far plunged her into twenty feet of water, and the next moment she was spinning round and round in the current. She had learned to swim a few strokes in the creek on her father's farm, and her meagre skill now stood her in good stead, for she was able to keep afloat until the current threw her against a gravel bar that jutted into the river. She dragged herself ashore, very wet, and of a sudden, very frightened, and sat down on the warm stones. It was here that she recorded another revelation: she would learn to swim—not a feeble stroke or two, but to master of this river which had so nearly mastered her. "I will do it," she said. "I will swim it across and back. If it takes till December, and—burr-r-rh—It's cold enough now." Then it occurred to her that there was no better time to start than the present. She looked out a place where the current was not too strong, and where there were no treacherous rock-spits in the bottom, spread her wet clothing to dry in the sun and for an hour fought the cold current at its own game.

It is not recorded how it came about, but Arthurs passed the word among the ranch hands that a certain stretch of river bank was sacred from all intrusion.

But it was in the life of the home, even more than in the joyous freedom of the out-of-doors, that Beulah found her great delight. The Arthurs, she knew, were wealthy—many times richer than her father, who passed as a wealthy man among the farmers of Plainville. But with the Arthurs wealth was merged an incident—a pleasant but by no means essential by-product of their lives. They lived simply, but well; they worked honestly, but did not slave; and they all their living and working, they shed a kindness and courtesy that communicated itself to all with whom they came in contact. The cowboys, Beulah soon discovered, were as unlike the cowboys of fiction and of her imagination as a Manitoba steer is unlike his Albertan brother, they did not carry revolvers, nor swagger in high boots, nor rip the air with their profanity; and their table manner reminded her of George and Harry Grant, and the Grants were outstanding examples of right living in the Plainville district. And Mrs. Arthurs, gentle and kind in all her ways, and yet firm and strong and calm, she was—such a woman, Beulah told herself, as her own mother might have been, had her soul not been crushed under a load of unceasing labor.

But, most of all, it was to Fred Arthurs that the heart of the young girl turned. Whether he sat over his desk at his letters, or dispensed hospitality at his table (for all who passed up or down the valley, as a matter of course, stopped for a meal at the Arthurs), or carried a basket of eggs or discussed theology with the travelling missionary, or philosophy with his book-worm neighbour from across the river, or read poetry with his wife on the Sunday afternoons, or sang with his great voice in the mellow, yellow twilight, or—most of all—when he looked at Beulah with his fine eyes, and she caught the mirrored reflection of the hunger in his soul, she felt that here was a man who had lived his life to the uttermost and would go on living it through all eternity. She only half guessed what his thoughts toward her were—she did not know that Fred and Lilian Arthurs had at last agreed that they would do better than leave their wealth to charity, and that a new will was soon to be drawn—but to her he seemed pure gold and a gentleman to his last gesture. And she vowed one night that if ever she met a single man like Fred Arthurs she would marry him although all the canons and conventions of Christendom stood between them.

IMPERIAL MICA AXLE GREASE

An old standby with farmers and teamsters. Even if it contained no mica it would still be a good axle grease—but the mica makes it better, because it fills in and smooths up the microscopic roughness of spindle and hub, enabling the grease to wear longer and do its work better. Use only half as much as of ordinary grease. Comes in sizes from 1-lb. tins to barrels.

Norris Government Wins Out Over Its New Land Policy

Winnipeg.—So far from coming to grief over its new land policy, the Norris Government in the legislature won out with an ease that was not expected by even the most sanguine of supporters.

The Talbot amendment for special consideration for municipalities affected was thrown out by 37 to 6, and the Dixon amendment condemning the Government for its past policy of leniency in connection with contracts was defeated, 34 to 9.

The resolution proposed by Premier T. C. Norris provides for foreclosure on lands in the event of arrears of principal and interest not being paid within six months. The Premier had previously stated, however, that cancellation in six months for arrears of principal would be drastic action, and he again suggested that the resolution should be modified in such a way that it would apply to arrears of interest only and that returned soldiers should be among those exempt.

Hon. H. T. Johnson, attorney-general, moved an amendment giving effect to these changes, and the debate was adjourned.

Baltic Closed By Ice

Steamers Held Fast With 27 Passengers on Board

Stockholm.—The Baltic Sea has been converted into an isolated lake owing to the virtual closing of the Cattegat and the sound by ice. Five steamships, including the Thule from London, with 27 passengers, are held fast in the ice in a dangerous position off the Vinga Lighthouse.

London.—The closing of the Baltic by the icebelt will not interfere with American relief activities in Russia, according to American administration headquarters here.

A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE

It Seems So in Many Cases and Good Health is Always Necessary

Viscount, Saskatchewan.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down as my 16-year-old daughter has taken it and is quite her own girl again."—Mrs. Fawn Wizer, Viscount, Saskatchewan.

I Live On A Farm

Upper New Horton, N. B.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and they have done me a world of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as I live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this will help someone else."—Mrs. W. B. Kavan, Upper New Horton, New Brunswick.

He Gained Twenty Pounds in a Year

That's Why This Man Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. Carl Bouteller of Mason's Point After Four Years Suffering Took the Advice of a Friend and Used Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mason's Point, Heart of St. Margaret's Bay, N.S.—(Special).—"When I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills I was twenty-three years old and weighed 105 lbs. In one year I gained 20 lbs. This is the statement of Mr. Carl Bouteller, a well known and highly respected resident of this place. It is one more addition to the great mass of evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest of all kidney remedies.

"I was laid up for four years with kidney trouble," Mr. Bouteller states further: "One day a friend advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and I made up my mind to give them a trial. I used just six boxes in all." The road to health lies through the kidneys. If they are kept strong and well all the impurities are strained out of the blood. But if they are weak and out of order the impurities stay in the blood and disease is sure to result.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not make strong healthy kidneys.

Soil Drifting Problem

Wheat Growing Should Be Abandoned For Mixed Farming

Winnipeg.—Until farmers in districts where soil drifting is prevalent will abandon wheat growing to the exclusion of mixed farming, the task of keeping drains open will be almost impossible, and as a means of forcing a change in methods farmers should be charged with the expense of such repair work. H. A. Bowman, head of the reclamation department of the Provincial Government, stated in a statement presented to the minister of public works.

The report points out that under these conditions it is impossible to carry on repair work with horses, and no machine to do it has been invented.

Mr. Bowman also recommends legislation to control the load which can be carried on gravelled roads by motor trucks.

For Return of Natural Resources

Planning Preliminaries for Appointment of Arbitration Board

Regina.—A dispatch to the Leader says that probabilities now point strongly to the appointment of a commission or arbitration board to make a full accounting as a preliminary to the return to the western provinces of their natural resources. The King Government readily concedes the equity of the western claims. The question, however, is one of terms. It will be necessary to value the lands which would be turned over and those which have been alienated and to ascertain what Federal administration has cost. Moreover, the subsidy question will come up for determination as to whether it should be continued to the full extent after the return of the resources. There are various other aspects of the case.

Nervous Breakdown COULDN'T SLEEP NIGHTS

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves; nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. M. Damgaard, Young's Cove Road, N.B., writes:—"I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness; could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

Cattle Feed Scarce In North Dakota

Serious Condition in Southwestern Part of State

Fargo, N.D.—Fifty per cent. of the cattle in the drought-stricken counties of the southwestern part of North Dakota will die before spring if feed relief is not secured, according to advice received by the state agricultural college here.

County agents are considering a drive of cattle to the bad lands northward, where the range is better. A foot of snow on the ground, combined with entire lack of feed under the snow makes it almost impossible for cattle to exist. Efforts are under way to provide some means of relief.

Grain Growers Will Enter Political Field In Saskatchewan

Regina.—The following resolution on entry into provincial politics was passed by the Saskatchewan Grain Growers Association at their convention here:

"Whereas we hold it to be the duty of all citizens to interest themselves in all matters of government and to express themselves by the exercise of their franchise in elections; and whereas for effectual expression they must group themselves according to the principles and purposes they hold in common; and where as while facilities have been provided for expression of our common principles federally, no such provision has been made provincially; therefore, be it resolved that this convention favors taking the necessary steps to provide for the organization of the supporters of these principles and objects for provincial election purposes."

That the Parliament of Canada should immediately re-establish the Canada Wheat Board for the purpose of handling the 1922 crop of Canada and future crops until normal conditions again prevail, and that the board should be under the direction of the chairman and vice-chairman of the original wheat board, was a further resolution which was virtually unanimously accepted by the delegates.

Shareholders Agree To Absorption

Willing to Accept Offer of Bank of Montreal

Montreal.—The Bank of Montreal shareholders at a meeting here ratified the proposition placed before them by the board of directors to take over the Merchants' Bank of Canada.

The meeting also sanctioned an increase in the capital stock of the Bank of Montreal of not more than $6,000,000, as may be necessary to enable the exchange to be carried out according to the terms of the purchase.

The Merchants' Bank shareholders voted to accept the offer of the Bank of Montreal last Wednesday. The Merchants' Bank was compelled to seek a purchaser when its reserve was impaired by bad loans.

The Bank of Montreal will give one share of its stock for two of Merchants and $10 a share for $1,550,000. The deal requires only the sanction of the minister of finance to become complete.

Indications point to at least six or seven outfits being on the go, in the local field, this year.

Jimson did not seem to be greatly agitated at the news, and only muttered:

"Hm! I always said that clock was slow!"

Nice Nest Egg

Considerable Western Grain Still Held Over From Last Harvest

Western Canada still has a sixty-eight million dollar nest egg left over from the 1921 harvest, as the tally of grain stocks held in elevators west from the head of the lakes shows, in a recent analysis of the Board of Grain Commissioners. This takes no count of course of grain still held out by farmers, which is reaching shipping points very slowly. The approximate total value is $68,932,252. In store at Fort William and Port Arthur are 31,659,926 of all grains, an increase in the week of 106,845.

TREAT RHEUMATISM THROUGH THE BLOOD

Liniments and Rubbing Only Give Temporary Relief

Rheumatism is a trouble extremely difficult to get rid of. If a tendency to rheumatism is established in the system it makes itself manifest by a return of the acute pains with every spell of bad weather. This is why so many people think the trouble is due to cold or damp. The fact is known, however, to medical men, that with the appearance of rheumatism there is a rapid thinning of the blood, and that the rheumatic pains are only expelled from the system when the blood is restored to its normal condition. This means that to drive rheumatism from the system it must be treated through the blood, and for this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been very successful, as they build up and enrich the blood, thus easing the aching, swollen joints, and benefitting the health of the sufferer in other ways as well. Among the rheumatic sufferers who have satisfactorily used this medicine is Mrs. James Gillan, Charlottetown, P.E.I., who says: "For three long months I suffered terribly from rheumatism. I was so bad that I could not do my housework, and even to attempt to walk caused me agony. I spent a great deal of money on liniments and medicines without getting the least benefit, and my condition was pitiable. At this stage my attention was called to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I began taking this medicine, and shall always praise the day I did so. Before long there was no doubt that I had, at last found something that would give me relief. I gladly continued using the pills with the result that I am now as well as ever I was able to do my housework and care for my children. Since that time one of my daughters fell into an anæmic condition and was obliged to discontinue going to school. I gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and now she is as healthy a girl as there is in the city. You may be sure I lose no opportunity in praising this medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be had through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dainty Chiffon Evening Frock

By Marie Belmont

Beaded chiffon dance dresses are strongly sponsored in Paris, and very youthful, airy affairs they are, with the beads applied in cunning little loops.

Of all white chiffon with crystal bead loops, the above frock is essentially created for the spring dance. The bodice is built on straight lines, with the beads extending halfway down. The soft crushed girde is finished with little bead loops, and from it at either side chiffon drops down below the hem line and extends up again to the girde.

An infinite variety of color is offered in beaded chiffon frocks. The inspiration above is repeated in coral, citron green and lemon yellow.

Mother, Quick! Give California Fig Syrup For Child's Bowels

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

That's the answer a good many people make when they hear that the drug element in tea and coffee often harms nerves and health. They say it's never touched them yet.

Sometimes they only think it hasn't.

We have made arrangements with the E. H. Heath Co. Limited who publish the CANADIAN POWER FARMER whereby we are able to offer that farm magazine together with our own weekly at the one price for both papers.

The CANADIAN POWER FARMER is Western Canada's biggest farm monthly. It is now in its twentieth year which means that it is thoroughly established throughout the West. It deals with the mechanical side of the farm. Every issue is full of helpful hints and experiences on the operation of all kinds of farm machinery from a washing-machine to a tractor. Its editor has just completed a trip of several months over Western Canada in a motor car for the purpose of studying the mechanical needs of the farmers. He visited the farmers, lived with them and worked with them. The results of his trip will appear during the next twelve months.

This offer may be withdrawn at any time. Without doubt your intention is to renew for this weekly, then why not take advantage now. Your subscription to this weekly together with a year's subscription to THE CANADIAN POWER FARMER for the same price as this weekly alone. This is where you make $1.50 on a bushel of wheat.

Mail your cheque or drop into our office the first time you are in town.
